YESTERDAY'S NOON DISPATCHES.

FROM NEW YORK.

Revenue Frauds in New York.—Investigation of Revenue Affairs. $1,500,000 in Bonds Stolen—An Agent of the Confederate Cotton Loan—Threatened Action of Government to be Taken—The Air-Line Road—Southern Cities in Washington City.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. E. A. Tamm, arrived at the New York House of Representatives yesterday, to investigate the revenue frauds alleged to have been perpetrated by a number of disreputable persons in New York. Nothing of importance in the matter transpired yesterday, and it is deemed advisable to publish the names of the persons whose names have been mentioned, as several of them are reported to have been in the city of New York, and it is possible that they may attempt to flee the country.

No notice of the detection of the three revenue frauds was given by the Treasury Department yesterday. The names of the persons whose names have been mentioned, as several of them are reported to have been in the city of New York, and it is possible that they may attempt to flee the country.

The Senate at Union Square are still increasing their funds and adding to the volume of their work. The names of the persons whose names have been mentioned, as several of them are reported to have been in the city of New York, and it is possible that they may attempt to flee the country.

The World's Affairs special says that the Treasury agents in the South have been directed by the Treasury Department to inform the public at large, and especially the cotton planters, that the cotton loan is considered property of the late Confederate Government, and is liable to seizure and confiscation.
